HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

Provide a brief history of the cemetery with bibliographic references. Use additional pages if needed.

January 14, 1906, Bell and Rose Turner deeded one and one half acres to Travis County for a public free school and burial ground and church purpose for all denominations." They later sold another acre making the tract 2½ acres. The community had been active since the early 1870s. Some grave sites were already there. The earliest date shown on a tombstone is 1886.

Many families have remember that date back to the early town of Manchaca. Many of these families have continued to bury family members there up to the present.

REQUIRED ATTACHMENTS

- ❑ Current black and white photographs (and historic photographs if available); color prints will not be accepted except as supplements to a core set of black and white photographs.
- ❑ Map as described in instructions.
- ❑ Site plan as described in instructions. 180' x 180'
- ❑ Processing fee of $25 (non-refundable).

APPROVAL BY COUNTY HISTORICAL COMMISSION

The form must be approved by the appropriate county historical commission before forwarding to the THC.

Nameless Cemetery

Nameless Cemetery was a part of the Nameless Community. According to the article in the Austin American on October 13, 1970, the subject marker placed beside the cemetery reads, "Site of Community of Nameless-First surveyed in the 1850s, this area attracted numerous settlers by 1868. A community grew up, and in 1880 townspeople applied for a post office. After postal authorities rejected six names, the citizens replied in disgust, "Let the post office be nameless and be d____d." The implied name was accepted."

"Besides the post office (1880-1890), the town had a store, meat market, and school, which also served as a church. The present school was erected in 1909; classes were discontinued in 1945. Today only the school, cemetery and ruins mark the site of a once active community. (1970)"

On January 16, 1906, Bell and Rose Turner, the owners of the property on which the cemetery and school stood, donated one and one-half acres for a "school and cemetery" to the County Judge of Travis County (See Travis County property deed found in Volume #209, page 5). In 1909, a new school was built, and Bell and Rose Turner donated another acre for the use of the school to the County Judge of Travis County. (See Travis County property deed found in Volume 241 on page 617)

There was never a charge for burial in the Nameless Cemetery. Many families had plots and burials have taken place there since 1870 when the school was first established. The earliest tombstone date that is readable is 1886. People have continued to be buried there up to the present. There was a burial there in 2006.

Many of the original families to the area are buried there: Carltons, Lohmans, Williamsons, Maynards, Briggs, Harts, Turners, Popes, Sylvesters, and many others. Some of these families such as the Williamsons have family reunions at the cemetery.

Travis County has surveyed and fenced the cemetery and schoolhouse area. The county crews clean and mow the cemetery grounds.

Much of the history of the cemetery was compiled by J.M. (Mulkey) Owens, member of the Travis County Historical Survey Committee in the 1960s.

History

Nameless Cemetery was a part of the Nameless Community. The town began as Fairview, but when the residents applied for a post office in 1880, they were turned down for the name of Fairview and many others submitted. Finally, the responded to the rejections with the words, "Just let it be nameless!". The U.S. Postal Service gave them the name of Nameless.

People were buried in a certain area. The earliest headstone date is 1884.

There was also a school nearby. In 1909 a new school was built. Churches held services in the school and on the grounds.

In 1906, the present owners of the property, Bell & Rose Turner, deeded 1½ acres for a "school and cemetery". In 1910, they deed one more acre for the use of the school. The land was deeded to the County Judge of Travis County.

There was never a charge for burial there. Many families had plots. People have continued to be buried there up to the present. There was a burial there in 2006.

Travis County has fenced the cemetery and school area. The county maintenance crews clean and mow the cemetery grounds.

An historical marker was placed outside the cemetery by the THC in 1960.

We have almost all the documentd needed to have a complete Historic Texas Cemetery application for the Nameless Cemetery. The only item left is the bibliographic references for the narrative. Basically we need the sources used to produce the narrative submitted with the application. I am enclosing a copy of the two histories that have been submitted. We would prefer that the narrative be typed or computer generated so we can make a clear copy if the public ask for the history of the cemetery.

Re: TV-C080, Pending Historic Texas Cemetery Designation, Nameless Cemetery, Travis County

Dear Judge Briscoe & Commissioner Daughtery:

The purpose of this letter is to inform you that the Texas Historical Commission has received an application for a Historic Texas Cemetery designation for the Nameless Cemetery from Genny Kercheville of the Historical Committee of Nameless School & Cemetery. The deed records reflect that you are an owner of property that shares a common border with the cemetery. Cemeteries that are deemed worthy of recognition and preservation for their age and historical significance are eligible for this designation. The four-page Historic Texas Cemetery application form has provided us with a narrative history and photographs of the cemetery, and documentation defining its boundaries. Upon review and approval of the application, the Texas Historical Commission will supply the applicant with an Affidavit of Dedication for Cemetery Purposes to be recorded in the deed records in the Travis County Clerk's office.

This designation does not restrict in any way your use of the land adjacent to or surrounding this historic cemetery. Any cemetery or burial site in Texas, whether designated as a Historic Texas Cemetery or not, may not be disturbed, desecrated, or have gravestones removed under existing state laws. A brief description of the Historic Texas Cemetery Designation Program is included with this letter.

It is our hope that this designation will encourage long-term preservation of this unique resource through its recordation in the deed records. Please feel free to contact me at the letterhead address, by telephone at 512/475-4167, or by E-mail at gerron.hite@thc.state.tx.us if you should have any questions or input concerning this matter.

RE: TV-C080: Pending Historic Texas Cemetery Designation, Nameless Cemetery, Travis County

Dear Ms. Kercheville:

This letter is in reference to our receipt and review of the application for a Historic Texas Cemetery Designation for the Nameless Cemetery in Travis County. We have reviewed the submitted material and find that the Nameless Cemetery meets our criteria for designation as a historic cemetery and thereby approve the application. I am enclosing the Affidavit of Dedication for Cemetery Purposes along with Exhibit A. Please take these documents to the Travis County Clerk's office and request that they be recorded in the County Deed Records indexed to the Nameless Cemetery. Please request a photocopy of the recorded documents that includes the volume and page number or other reference number of the recordation and send it to the Texas Historical Commission. We will send you a Historic Texas Cemetery designation certificate upon receipt of the copy or copies.

A cemetery or burial site that has received the Historic Texas Cemetery designation may also be eligible for an Official Texas Historical Marker. The purchase and display of these markers is optional. If you are interested in applying for a marker contact your county historical commission after you receive your Historic Texas Cemetery certificate. Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions about the preservation of this historic cemetery.

Dear Gerron.

We were pleased to get the Historic Texas Cemetery designation.

I went to the County Court house to file - only to find that the County Clerk office on Airport Blvd. is where documents get recorded. I did get it recorded, but they said they no longer do volume and page number but go by the number listed on the back of the page.

I thought you might want to update your letters for future cemeteries that get Historic designation.

Thank you for all your work on our behalf.

RE: TV-C080: Historic Texas Cemetery Designation, Nameless Cemetery, Travis County

Dear Ms. Kercheville:

The Texas Historical Commission is honored to designate the Nameless Cemetery as a Historic Texas Cemetery (HTC). The enclosed certificate is testament to your commitment to the preservation of this important historic resource. However, this is just the first step toward the protection and preservation of the Nameless Cemetery. Enclosed please find a fact sheet with information to help you develop a master preservation plan for the cemetery. A master plan is a tool to help establish goals, priorities and maintenance schedules and estimate costs. It also contains a detailed record of the cemetery through photos and surveys of the gravestones and cemetery features. We have retained those photos you provided with the Historic Texas Cemetery Designation application that will be most helpful in the designation file. Any additional photos are being returned to you with this letter to be included in your master preservation plan.

Also included is information about the RIP Guardian program. This program helps local volunteer groups take charge of neglected historic cemeteries across Texas by providing education, consultation and assistance to preserve these important cultural resources. You can find more information about the program at http://www.thc.state.tx.us/cemeteries/cemadopt.html or by contacting Anne Shelton at 512/475-4506 or anne.shelton@thc.state.tx.us.

You will also find a sample press release and a fact sheet with background information on preserving cemeteries should you choose to publicize your cemetery's HTC designations. This is an optional choice that we leave to the discretion of those affiliated with the cemetery, as there are circumstances in which drawing attention to an isolated burial ground may not be prudent. However, highlighting this additional level of recognition for an already highly visible cemetery can be a positive way to reassert the fact that the community treasures the sacred burial ground.

The Historic Texas Cemetery designation is one qualification for an Official Texas Historical Marker, an option you may want to consider. If you are interested in applying for a marker, contact your county historical commission. The annual application deadline will be in January 2008, and you will need to work with your commission chair on preparing your application packet so it meets all the program requirements. Please visit our website at www.thc.state.tx.us or contact the Travis County Historical Commission for updates and news on when we will again accept marker applications. The contact person is Barry Hutcheson, Chair, Travis County Historical Commission, 5803 Burrough Dr, Austin, TX 78745.

NAMELESS

Not many have heard of Nameless, Texas. It was a town on Big Sandy Creek in northwestern Travis County, and is still shown on the maps as Nameless. Not much remains there now except stone steps and fences from the old store and post office, high on a hill overlooking Big Sandy. Across the creek on the other side is the old church and school and cemetery. The records of the National Archives in Washington show that the Nameless post office was started on January 19, 1880, and discontinued on January 13, 1890. When the settlers requested a post office there, they submitted six names; and each was turned down because there were already post offices by the name suggested. Finally, they wrote to the post office department saying: "Let the post office be nameless, and be d-----d." So, the post office department accepted their suggestion. It was listed as Nameless, Texas.

When Bob Turner settled on the nearby Colorado River about a century ago, the land back of him on Big Sandy was reserved for his three children, that on the north side for Riley Turner, whose son, Nolan Turner, lived there. Another son, Bell Turner, received the land on the south side of the creek, and a daughter, Mrs. Pat Cook, had land further back. Bob Turner later carried the mail from Leander out to the little town; and he knew it when the church grounds were their meeting place, with week-long camp meetings and barbecues to which people came from miles away. At one of these camp meetings, while they were singing a church song, the elderly J. P. Corley, a postmaster there, died at the gathering in the brush arbor. The community was thickly settled then, and most of the postmasters lived either up or down the creek from Nameless. They were: Philip T. Stroud, appointed January 19, 1880; J. P. Corley, May 5, 1885; Mrs. Nancy H. Olds, August 19, 1885; Nancy H. Burns, November 1, 1886; John W. Cox, August 4, 1887; James P. Colley, December 29, 1889; Thomas B. Atterberry, February 19, 1889.

In this highland lakes area, the Colorado River winds through canyons and cliffs and coves. A nearby community to Nameless, called Volente, was partially submerged by the lake; presently Dodd City near there, has reverted to the old name of Volente. There, a young girl of fifteen, now Mrs. H. E. Hensel, carried the mail, by horseback, by buggy, from Cedar Park to her mother's home at Volente, where Mrs. Allie Annie Anderson was postmistress and kept the mail in a dishpan, on a wash-stand. Some of the old rail fences still stand in that neighborhood.

Just a few miles down the creek from Nameless and Volente is the site of Anderson's Mill. Miss Lucy Anderson, of Austin, remembers the stories her grandfather told of this. After the Civil War, this resourceful man modernized his place with irrigation, from a tank with a hand-made hydraulic ram, with pipe he brought from Brenham by oxen in the 1870's. His mill, near Nameless, was built in 1863, serving pioneers there and the Confederates during the war.

Currently, many of the old communities in the highland lakes area are losing their identities and becoming supply points and recreation centers for hunting and fishing, but not Nameless. A few enterprising emigrants to the cattle country around there tried calling it Fairview for a while, but they were not successful. To its founding fathers who listed it as a post office in Washington, it was Nameless, and it will always be Nameless, Texas.

NAMELESS. The old church and school and cemetery are there by the creek today, reminders of the community which was once called Fairview. The school was built on land donated by Bell Turner.

NAMELESS SCHOOL HISTORY

"One of Travis County's first communities Nameless was settled before 1850" - note from Tony Proffitt's article in Austin American, April 12, 1964. No school is mentioned.

Perhaps the first authentic record is made in the Texas State Gazeteer and Business Directory, Volume 1, 1882. "Nameless has one church and school." This could have been established with the town in 1880. In volume 2, 1884 it is spoken of as a "district school."

"The house that stands now (1936) was erected in 1909 (under the supervision of Mr. Bell Turner) and is on the same tract of land as the first building. The tract was donated by Mr. Bell Turner." (Note from The Defender published in 1936). The accompanying picture indicates the same building that stands today (1965).

The earliest county school board records seem to be dated July 14, 1936 and the last July 2, 1945. During this time the school was known as Fairview. It was always a one teacher school.

In 1945 Fairview, Cypress, Round Mountain and Valenti common school districts of Travis County were grouped with Leander School district of Williamson County.

The Nameless School building was always used also for church services. Different denominations - Mr. Van Lohman recalls that the Baptists and the Christians (Campbellites) would hold revival meetings under an arbor where the Nolan Turner house now stands. Two of the preachers he remembers were Brice Milam from Bee Cave and Ben Frier a local minister from Big Sandy; also Mr. H. B. Ray, Church of Christ minister from Cedar Park.

The baptismal services were probably held further down the creek at the Yocum place - in the bend of Big Sandy south of Jonestown.

In 1935 the ground "one acre more or less" was bought by the Assembly of God from Nolan Turner. Mr. Turner bought it back in 1945 from this denomination. In this transfer of property no building is mentioned in the deed.

For the past twenty years the building [illegible]
as a meeting place by local organizations, and was in a very run down condition until the Lake Travis Home Demonstration Club took over its renovation in 1965 for the purpose of having a permanent meeting place.

RECENT HISTORY

The Lake Travis Home Demonstration Club was organized November, 1959. The club met in the homes of different members the first year, but the advisability of a permanent meeting place was always present. The Nameless School house on Big Sandy Creek was available, but in a discouragingly run down condition. However, it was chosen and with few exceptions has been used as the meeting place of the Lake Travis Home Demonstration Club since 1960.

As its main achievement project for 1965, the Lake Travis Home Demonstration Club adopted the complete renovation of the old Nameless School building. This Achievement Day, October 8, 1965, the club can view with pride and appreciation of what those members who spent so many hours on the project have accomplished towards making an attractive, inviting meeting place of the old building, known since 1880 as the Nameless School and church - also in the Travis County records from 1936-1945 as the Fairview School.

Much had to be done from the sagging gate at the entrance of the grounds to the leaking roof of the building. Commissioner N. L. Gault replaced the gate with a first class cattle guard.

A four foot wide bed for native plants outlined with honeycomb rocks surrounds the building. This together with new stone steps and a new door both at the front and side entrances, add up to a very attractive approach.

A new roof was added; the building painted inside and out; doors and broken windows replaced; protective wire mesh placed over windows; then the attractive finishing touch of white cafe curtains trimmed with aqua and orange braid was added. The rusty old box wood burning stove and pipe were polished; the old dilapidated blackboard was removed.

Nameless School History (cont'd)

How was all this work financed? It is interesting to know that the old community spirit which has been so evident through the years - eighty-five or more - still motivates people from Nameless even though they no longer live on Big Sandy. Mrs. Van Lohman, whose early life was spent here, raised over $200.00 for the renovation project by contacting old friends especially those who have members of the family buried in the old cemetery adjoining the school grounds.

Other friends of the club - among them Mr. Guy Smithson, Mr. Bobby Allday, and Mr. W. J. Kruger - helped with the heavier work.

Nameless or Fairview Cemetery may be reached by traveling 5 miles west on FM1431 to Nameless Road. There is a light there. Travel on Nameless for approximately 1.3 miles and turn left into the Nameless or Fairview School and Cemetery. It is about 100 yards from the gate.

Bell & Rosa Turner gave 1½ acres to Travis County for a school and cemetery. (It had been used for both since 1870s but on private property)

The first gift was in 1906 for 1½ acres. In 1910 another acre was given to Travis County for the Fairview School District.
